Superior Packaging for Protecting Wood Craftsmanship

Great millwork deserves superior packaging for protection during transportation. That's why Felins USA is featuring the NEW packaging and banding machine at the IWF – International Woodworking Fair in Atlanta, Georgia in August 2016.

This unique banding machine performs in the robust wood mill or woodshop environment reliably, while it bands wood products and kits with a firm, but gentle band. This method of unitizing uses far less packaging material and requires no end caps. The speed of processing on the packaging line is noticeable. The automated machine can also reduce labor, time, and costs. Companies will see faster cycle times when they replace hand processing with banding.

Because products arrive at a construction site or retail store with less damage, they are less likely to be charged back to the manufacturer. This has saved our customers thousands of dollars and contributed to the ROI of purchasing banding machines. The last thing your company touches is the first thing your customers see. Present your artisanship in confidence with banding, instead of damaging products with traditional strapping.

Wood finishing companies, furniture manufacturers, cabinetmakers, wood molding producers and millworkers should stop by booth 5913. In addition to seeing the machine in person at the IWF, watch it in this video. After you see this machine run, contact Felins USA.
